Rob opened his huge birthday present.
 "A talking robot!" said Rob.
 "I'll name you Bott!"

3

Rob took Bott to meet all of his friends.
 But one by one, his friends stopped playing with Bott.

4

Rob soon found out why.
 Bott was rude to people.
 He never said hello or please or thank you.

Bott sat like a big tin can when Grandma came to visit.
 "You should say Nice to meet you," Rob said.

"Being rude isn't cool," Rob said.
"A robot can learn anything.
So you can learn good manners," he said.

Bott nodded, and burped.
"Say excuse me when you
burp," said Rob.
"Excuse me," said the robot.
"Good job!" said Rob.

Rob gave Bott a new battery.
"Do I say excuse me?"
Bott asked.
"No, you say thank you when a person helps you."

Bott burped again and nodded.
He learned when to say hello
and please and thank you.
"This is easy!" Bott said.

Soon, Bott opened doors
for people.
He used his napkin.
He waited for his turn to talk.
Rob’s friends.

“You’re the best robot in the world,” said Grandma.
“Thank you,” said Bott,
as he burped.
“And excuse me,” he said.
