The Summer Olympic Games

The Summer Olympics are held every four years.

They are held in cities around the world.

Athletes walk in a parade at the start of the Games.

Let's look at some of the games.

swimming

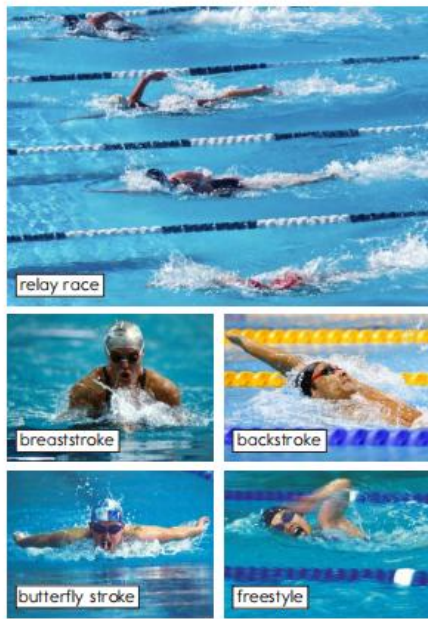

water polo

Water Sports

There are many water sports.

One water sport is swimming.

Some swimming races use only one kind of stroke.
Other races use many strokes.

Another water sport is diving.
Divers jump from high above the water.

Many Olympic events take place on the track and field.

Track and Field

Track and field events are games of running, throwing, and jumping. Races can be short or long.

In throwing games, people win by throwing objects the farthest.

In the high jump, people leap over a bar.

In the long jump, people leap as far as they can.

Gymnastics

Gymnasts leap, flip, and twirl. They need strength, skill, and good timing.

Only women compete on the balance beam. They must balance on the beam while they turn and flip.

A gymnast's arms and shoulders need to be strong to do the rings.

Only men compete on the rings. They hold onto the rings and flip their bodies in circles.
